U.S. Studies Alternate Europe Defense Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. Military and diplomatic officials are quietly working on alternative European defense plans for possible use if next week's London conference fails to produce an acceptable German rearmament program.

Some authorities estimated that almost as much time has been spent on possible lines of action for the United States in the absence of French agreement to some German arms plan as that devoted to preparations for American participation in the nine-power London meeting.

Want Substitute Plans

One reason, informants said, is that State Department officials do not want to get caught again without substitute plans, as they were when the French Assembly shelved the European Defense Community project.

Work to date has produced a great variety of policy papers which informants said fall into three broad categories:

1. Peripheral defense — This would mean basing U. S. plans for resistance to any Communist aggression on positions in Britain, Spain, Italy and the Middle East. It would have grave political consequences because it would be interpreted by many Western European peoples as meaning U. S. abandonment of them. Both President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are understood to be fundamentally opposed to this concept, yet it is described as having adherents, particularly in the military establishment, if it proved impossible to rearm West Germany.

Rearmament Of Germany

2. Direct rearmament of Germany — Under this formula the United States and Britain would go ahead, despite French unwillingness, to form German military forces after giving the West German government sovereignty in their zones. Some officials are convinced France would eventually have to follow suit in its zone. This would almost certainly involve a special treaty relationship among West Germany, Britain and the United States.

3. Interim German armament—The United States and Britain—with the cooperation or assent of France, if possible—would arm the West Germans, after granting sovreignty, but with a clear understanding that a political solution would still be worked out. In effect, the idea would be to say to the French: "We can't wait any longer to get German forces set up in the defense of Western Europe but we are willing to agree that limitations on the ultimate size and control of those forces and on arms production may still be established."

Secretary of State Dulles is scheduled to go to London this weekend to attend the conference which will bring together also the foreign ministers of France, West Germany, Britain, Canada, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

According to present planning, subject to Dulles' own final approval, the American secretary will not take any U. S. proposal for solving the French-German dilemma.

The present thinking is that the United States will probably go along with any arrangement which can be accepted alike by West German Chancellor Adenaur, Mendes-France and Eden.

Plan Concrete Pouring Monday

State St. Paving Job On Schedule

The final phase of the State St. project is expected to be started Monday when workmen of the O'Dell Construction Co. begin pouring concrete just west of the intersection of Lincoln and State.

According to Henry Escola, job superintendent, the only thing that can postpone the Monday pouring is the late arrival of the steel that will reinforce the nine-inch concrete.

Today workmen began placing the forms for the travel lane on the north side of the street in the block between Lincoln and Penn Avenues.

State Street will consist of two 12-foot travel lanes and two eight-foot parking lanes when the thoroughfare is completed. The travel lanes will be completed first.

The construction company hopes to finish the whole project by Oct. 15, well ahead of the Oct. 31 deadline.

Water Commissioner Aubrey Hayes reported this morning that all 72 water curb shutoff valves have been moved back and six old fire hydrants have been replaced with new ones along the street between Lincoln and Ellsworth. He expressed gratitude to the property owners along State St. who cooperated with his department in having copper pipe put in from the shutoff valves to their buildings, thus insuring longer wear.

Hayes also reported that his workmen pushed five new copper lines across the street while it was torn up.

Nationalist, Red Chinese Guns Duel

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalist artillery on Quemoy and Communist big guns on the nearby mainland fired upwards of 2,000 shells last night in a savage hour long duel, an army spokesman said today.

He described the exchange as the heaviest since the fighting broke out around Quemoy Sept. 3.

Nationalist planes and warships took over at dawn today, bombarding Amoy and other Red bases within artillery range of Quemoy for the 21st straight day, the Defense Ministry announced.

Lt. Gen. Chang Ti-ting, army spokesman, said the air force destroyed six Communist gunboats Wednesday.

Communist planes have not challenged Nationalist attackers, but Chang said Red aircraft were sited Tuesday and Wednesday near the Tachen slands, 350 miles north of Quemoy.

FLEMING FOUND GUILTY.—Lt. Col. Harry Fleming, accused of collaborating with the enemy while a POW in North Korea, leans on rail and pensively smokes a cigarette while a 11-man board deliberated verdict of court martial at Fort Sheridan, Ill. He was convicted, but was found innocent of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and informing on other prisoners.

Fleming Dismissed From Army, Must Forfeit Pay, Allowances

FT. SHERIDAN, Ill. (AP)—Lt. Col. Harry Fleming, convicted of collaborating with the Communists as a prisoner of war in Korea, today was sentenced by army court to be dismissed from the service and to forfeit all pay and allowances.

The 11-member courtmartial deliberated Fleming's fate for 12 hours before fixing his punishment. From late afternoon Wednesday until 3:30 a.m. this morning. They returned at 9 a.m. to deliver the verdict.

Most of the prosecution and defense witnesses were in the court room when the sentence was announced. Many of the men who were prisoners of war in Korea with Fleming stood tensely in the courtroom waiting for the court's decision.

"Thank God I'm out of prison now—this one and the Communist's," Col. Fleming said. After the sentence was pronounced he added:

"I'll do everything I can to clear my name."

"Dismissal from the service is pretty hard to take I don't intend to stop the fight which started here."

The colonel said he wished to express "his tremendous thanks to his friends and to those who never heard of me before this thing but who have responded with hundreds of letters wishing me well."

Counsel for the white-haired, 46-year-old infantry officer of Racine, Wis., first American officer ever courtmartailed for his behavior as a POW, said the conviction would

Convicts Quelled By Guards And State Troopers

8 Buildings Razed Or Damaged By Fire; Loss Is $5,000,000

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—A flaming riot at the Missouri State Penitentiary, was quelled today after four convicts were killed, 30 prisoners and three guards injured and at least eight prison buildings destroyed or heavily damaged by fire.

Heavily armed troopers of the Missouri State Highway Patrol moved into the foggy, smoke begrimmed prison this morning.

Within a short time patrol officers reported all the convicts in troubled B and C halls were back in their cells.

An hour and half later, Col. Thomas E. Whitecotton, director of corrections, said the danger of any mass outbreak was definitely past.

He said then the situation was under control and that he expected no further trouble

The riot, causing damage estimated by prison officials as near $5,000,000, was confined within walls of the sprawling penitentiary located in the city, not far from the state capitol. None of the prisoners was believed to have escaped.

It was not known what started the rioting.

A state highway patrol trooper said that at the height of the melee the prison yard looked "like a madhouse."

"Buildings were flaming. Men were running around howling and screaming and fighting with each other," Capt. C. E. Potts said.

When state troopers and guards moved into the yard in an attempt to herd the convicts back into their buildings they were met with a hail of rocks and bricks.

In the ensuing melee, some prisoners were shot.

The prison has a population of 3,285 but officials estimated only

Dulles Expected To Discuss Ike's Atomic Plan Before UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dulles gives the ninth U.N. General Assembly a look at world problems through American eyes today. He reportedly plans to say something new about President Eisenhower's nine-month-old proposal for a peaceful world atomic pool.

Dulles speaks this afternoon in the opening round of general statements from each of the 60 U.N. members, annual prelude to Assembly debate on specific issues put before the international organization.

The 30-minute speech was scheduled to be televised and broadcast, both live and recorded.

Ahead of the American secretary on the speaking schedule today were Jose Maza of Chile and Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester B. Person.

Dulles was believed ready to carry a step forward the atoms-for-peace call Eisenhower sounded in the Assembly last Dec. 8. The secretary was expected to touch on this during a broad review of world affairs as the United States sees them, including the recent Indochina settlement, the new Pacific defense pact and current efforts to arrange for rearmament of Germany.

Addressing the Assembly last year, Eisenhower proposed that nations with atomic raw materials contribute some of them to a U.N.-sponsored pool to be devoted to peaceful uses for the benefit of all mankind. The United States and Russia discussed the idea without reaching agreement. Eisenhower finally said other countries were ready to go ahead without the Russians.

The Assembly's 15-member Steering Committee scheduled a meeting this morning in an effort to finish its job of recommending an agenda for the session and assigning work to the seven committees. The steering group had only one controversial item left to decide — Greece's request for self-determination for the Mediterranean island of Cyprus. The island off Southern Turkey, largely Greek-peopled, is ruled by Britain.

Senate Leaders May Issue Recall

McCarthy Censure Believed Probable

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Leader Knowland of California advised senate officers today that it may be several days before a decision is reached on when the Senate will reconvene to consider proposed censure of Sen. McCarthy.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders neared a decision today on orders to recall the Senate, perhaps next Wednesday, to consider a proposal to censure Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

J. Mark Trice, secretary of the Senate, said he hopes to know by noon whether Sens. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, and Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, have agreed on timing of the order for a politically explosive pre-election session.

"The odds are in favor of it," Trice said, but added that "nothing firm" has been decided. He said Sept. 29 next Wednesday, seemed "a reasonable date."

The censure resolution, filed by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt), accuses McCarthy of conduct tending to cast disrepute on the entire Senate. McCarthy declined to say what steps he will take to defend himself in the special session. Debate of at least a week appears likely.

A special committee created by the Senate to investigate the censure charges hopes to hand down on Monday a unanimous report to form the basis for the Senate's consideration.

Well-placed sources who declined to be named described its members as agreed in general on what the evidence showed in nine days of public hearings, but not yet fully agreed on how to phrase these views.

Chairman Watkins (R-Utah); called the group back into session this morning for another try. He said he was "still hoping" the report would be finished by the end of the week.

Trice's task will be to telegraph each Senate member of the special session date. Berofe recessing Aug. 20, the Senate authorized Knowland and Johnson jointly to call the special session on five days' notice. Trice said he interprets that to mean "at least five days."

Ike Defends Stand On Power

Carries Campaign Into Northwest

MCNARY DAM, Ore. (AP)—President Eisenhower, welcomed roustingly to the Pacific Northwest today links his campaign for election of another Republican Congress with a "spirited defense" of his administration on the hot public power issue.

The President on a four-state flying tour of the Far West scheduled a major address at ceremonies dedicating the 286 million dollar McNary Dam on the Columbia River here.

Eisenhower left the summer White House in Denver yesterday afternoon and told an applauding, police-estimated audience of 30,000 at Missoula, Mont., last night that his administration's "basic policy" is that American citizens generally are better qualfied to look after themselves "than is some bureaucrat in far-off Washington."

Indications in advance of his speech here today were that the President would strike pretty much the same theme in discussing the administration's controversial program for placing in local hands much of the responsibility for development of the Northwest's power resources. Aides said Eisenhower's address would amount to a spirited defense of the program.

Democrats have been sharply assailing the program as a step backward.

After his McNary speech the President was taking off immediately for Los Angeles where tonight he addresses a big political rally in Hollywood Bowl. Tomorrow morning in Los Angeles he will speak informally at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Eisenhower got an enthusiastic welcome from his airport audience in Missoula and a rip-roaring one on his arrival last night in Walla Walla, Wash., where he spent the night.

On hand at both places were Republican candidates for congressional and state offices and the President did a lot of political handshaking. In Missoula Democratic Rep. Lee Metcalf turned up to greet the chief executive. So did Metcalf's GOP opponent Winfield E. Page.

Psychologist Estimates 300 Need Help

Slow-Learners In County School System Are Tested

LISBON — There are at least 300 mentally handicapped children in Columbiana County rural schools who need the help that a trained school psychologist could give, an Ohio Department of Education psychologist said Wednesday.

Dr. P. O. Wagner of Columbus, in Lisbon to test 10 of the county's slowest learning pupils, said his estimate is conservative. "In most places in Ohio, about five per cent of the student body displays 20 per cent or more retardation, which is a very serious slowup."

The tests were made to give school officials an appraisal of their slow-learning pupil's ability and to advise them of the level of school work of which the child is capable.

The students selected for testing Wednesday ranged from 7 to 16 years and came from all parts of the county. They were given a half-hour battery of tests including memory and comprehension measurements. On one test Dr. Wagner would have the pupil find the missing part, such as a missing rabbit's ear or a missing finger on a glove.

"Such tests try to get at the kinds of things in which a child is weak and those in which he is pro-

Broken Axle Caused Train Derailment

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A broken axle today was listed as the probable cause of the derailment yesterday of the Santa Fe Railroad's streamliner San Francisco Chief in which all 191 passengers escaped serious injury.

Between 20 and 30 persons aboard the Oakland, Calif.-to-Chicago train were shaken up but only two passengers and three crew members were hsopitalized overnight. They were to be released today.

Th Santa Fe estimated damage at $250,000.

The accident occurred at Orwood Crossing 40 miles east of San Francisco as the train started to slow for a drawbridge.

The derailment was the San Francisco Chief's second within a month. It was derailed at Lomax, Ill., Aug. 22, when five persons were killed and 53 injured.

Roadmaster Walter Johnson said a dragging broken axle on one of the diesel units was the probable cause of yesterday's accident

Nine cars left the track, including the dome observation car, which crashed against a tall signal tower, ripping the side of the car and throwing 20 passengers onto the floor.

Engineer Emil Kloehn said the train was traveling about 70 miles an hour.

The uninjured were transferred to a reserve train and resumed their journey at 8:30 p.m. last night.

Scientists Explore Mysteries, Seek Uses For Sea's Cold Light

Editor's Note—The phosphorescent light of the sea has fascinated man since time began. How scientists suspect that there may someday be wonderful uses for the knowledge of what causes such light. This is another story of unusual studies at a Massachusetts Marine laboratory.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP) — The mystery light of the dark seas sprang into glowing bluish light as the scientist mixed two chemicals in a blackened room.

It shone brightly in the glass beaker, irridescent, lighting faintly a whole corner of the room.

This was exactly the light you see in sea water if you've ever swum at night or watched as a boat knifed through the water. It's the light like that — except for color — from yellow fireflies. Or from dead tree stumps glowing in the dark because of fungi growing on them.

It is bioluminescence, chemical and cold light which nature has granted to many living things, especially in the sea.

Man has been intrigued with this natural light from the time of his earliest observations and wonderings about his world. Now science is beginning to find the explanations, and perhaps some day some marvelous uses for it.

Mysteries of this cold light are being explored by Dr. E. Newton Harvey of Princeton University and associates who spend their summers here at the Marine Biological Laboratory working with lamp-bearing animals and organism from the sea.

Two chemicals create the light—luciferin and luciferase, an enzyme or accelerator of chemical reactions. Both have been isolated in pure form from a tiny crab-like creature, cypridina, which is one of the main illuminators of the sea. Fireflies produce their light from the same two chemicals, but the luciferin of fireflies is probably different from that of these crustacea.

These sea animals are about the size of a big bird, can be kept in the dried state, and will give off light when ground by mortar and pestle and mixed with water.

By careful chemical treatment, their luciferin can be extracted and also their luciferase. When these two liquids are mixed, you get the wondrous glow as though thousands of the animals at once were lighting the sea.

In life, these animals shoot their luminescence out into the water as a boat passes or the water is disturbed. Why they do it is a conundrum—perhaps to warn their fellows away.

Fireflies apparently use their flashing light to attract boy and girl fireflies together. Numerous little fish living in ocean depths carry headlamps and other lights. Perhaps, Dr. Harvey speculates, the position of the lights provide identification for romance in the blackness of the deep.

A relative of the jellyfish, nemiopsis, the size of a silvr dollar with a gren hue. Why it has a rent, producing pips or bounces on light is hard to answer. Dr. Harvey says, for it has no known enemies, nor does it seek out prey itself.

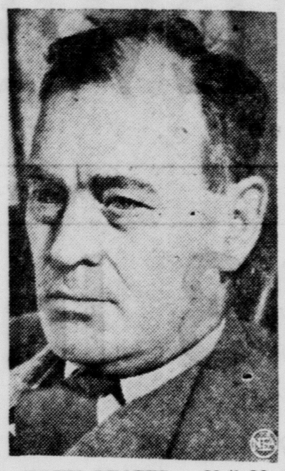

Dr. Joseph J. Chang of Princeton University, originally from South Korea put a bit of this jelly-like creature in a darkened box, so electric shocks could stimulate its light-producing cells. The light was picked up by a photocell, amplified and turned into electric current, producing pips or bounces on a recording screen.

The light-giving reaction is like the twitch of a muscle, and like a muscle the light cells will grow tired and weak from repeated performance. Can this reaction of sea-light help tell science more about the workings of the human engine of muscle? That is one purpose of the studies.

If cold light could be made synthetically—and there is a good chance that luficerin might be duplicated—then man could solve the secret of another engine of life.

Our lamps are inefficient, producing heat as well as light. Does nature hold the secret for better or special lights by which to see? Would it just satisfy a challenge from nature to learn the answers to bioluminescence? Or could it lead to advantages and uses still unforeseeable?

Scientists working on this and a hundred other projects cannot foretell. They do know that facts learned from basic research such as this often supply the key or clue to someone working to develop something for peace, or medicine or human good.

Inn's Owners Capture 10th Would-Be Burglar

FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—Wilcom's Inn, which has been so mysteriously tempting to would-be robbers over recent years, has been invaded for the 11th time.

And once again, owner Charles F. Wilcom and his three sons, who get plenty of practice at the game of catching crooks, made a capture.

Wilcom told police yesterday he and his boys caught one man coming out of the establishment early Monday, but that two other got away with 20 cartons of cigarettes, some change and three antique muskets Wilcom valued at $325.

Before Monday's exploit, the family trapped three men inside the inn and nabbed all three, wounding one seriously with shotgun pellets. And before that they apprehended six burglars in two catches. One of them was wounded and died later while awaiting trial.

Turned over to police after this week's attempt was a man identified as Frederick Deloy Fields of Portsmouth, Ohio.

Europeans Seek To Hike Sales Of 'Refreshments' In America

NEW YORK (AP)—Europeans hope today to distill more dollars out of America's taste for liquid refreshment—all the way from bubbly water to hard stuff on the rocks.

Sales drives are being fired for French cognac and champagne, German wines and beer, Irish whisky, and Spanish sherry. And Scotch will go on being a chief dollar earner for Britain, except that this year the distillers aren't increasing the supply for this country. Instead they're trying to recapture other world markets they've neglected since the war in their pursuit of the dollar.

American producers of whisky, wine, brandies and beer dominate the domestic market. But competition among themselves is getting rougher, and an aftermath of the new European sales push could be increased demands on Congress for a hike in tariffs.

The sales drives will be pushed vigorously. Maurice Hennessy, senior partner of the French cognac firm, Jas. Hennessy & Co., who is in this country on a sales mission, expects this year to set a sales record here. But he says cognac's sales chart here has been one of great peaks and valleys.

In a way, it's typical of most European beverage sales here. As Hennessy explained in an interview, the doughboys got a taste for cognac during World War I, but came back to an America of prohibition, and took to bathtub gin and white mule whisky. After repeal, cognac made a little comeback here, but lost that ground when World War II shut off supplies. And, besides, this time GI's learned to drink calvados in Normandy.

Since the war the cognac distillers have suffered from France's inflation, which tended to price them out of the world markets. But Hennessy voices a complaint that other European producers echo: That American hotels, restaurants and package stores tend to put so much a mark-up on imported drinks for prestige reasons as to hold down sales volume. He's trying both to drum up new customers here and to get the by-the-drink price brought down to a level competitive with other liquors.

Thirty-five champagne producers of France have joined with the National Assn. of Alcoholic Beverage Importers here in a drive to increase sales. Last year Americans bought 2,235,642 bottles of the French product. The Interprofessional Committee of Champagne Wine, of Epernay, France, says this brought in 3,924,900 Yankee dollars for France. But Americans paid night clubs, hotels, restaurants and package stores around 15 million dollars retail for the bubbly water—plus atmosphere.

Richard Blum Jr., president of Julius Wile Sons & Co., importers, and head of the sales drive here, says one big onject will be to increase the buying of champagne for home consumption. And the French could use more American dollars.

The German consulate here reports that beer exports to this country brought in 1,573,000 Yankee dollars for the West German government last year. German wines and brandy did less well, but sales have been increasing steadily in the last three years.

The Spanish government is reported by Charles A. Berns, chairman of the importing firm, "21" Brands Inc., to be planning a $200,000 promotion campaign here for sherry.

'Optimist' Stops Woman From Jumping To Death

BRDGEPORT, Conn. (AP)—David Berliner is credited with stopping a 49-year-old woman from jumping to her death from a hotel window ledge yesterday.

"I went to the window and started talking to her," he said. "I talked about everything in general. It was just a conversation about anything so I could win her confidence."

In five minutes, Berliner got close enough to pull the woman to safety.

He is vice president of the Bridgeport Optimists Club.

Showdown On Union Leaders

The most startling possibility in labor unionism today is a clean break between one of the two strongest unions and, one of the two political parties. This would end once and for all the influence of Samuel Gompers' dictum that unionism should be bipartisan in politics.

The possibility came into the open when Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell addressed the AFL convention in Los Angeles this week. He openly accused AFL leaders of going out of their way to heckle the Eisenhower administration, then went over the leaders' heads to tell working men and women that the administration deserved their support for its efforts in their behalf.

Since George Meany, AFL president, had gone out of his way to criticize the Eisenhower administration in his opening address to the convention, Secretary Mitchell's remarks were interpreted as a plain declaration of difference. It was recalled that when Vice President Nixon tried to explain the unfortunate mixup over Martin Durkin's appointment as secretary of labor to last year's AFL convention, he was greeted with jeering laughter.

Since then, Meany and other AFL leaders have heckled the Eisenhower administration tirelessly. As Mitchell pointed out in his address this week, nothing the administration has done has pleased AFL leaders. Yet he doubted if the leaders reflect the thinking of working men and women.

The time is drawing near for a showdown that has been in the making ever since most union executives lined up with the New Deal coalition. It has been proved repeatedly that they cannot deliver the votes of union members. But Mitchell is the first cabinet officer to challenge a powerful bloc of unionists to return to a bipartisan basis or admit they are partisan politicians disguised as union executives.

As Demonstrated In New York

The process known as "closing the ranks," after members of a political party have split wide open in a nominating fight, is always worth watching. Besides being a demonstration of the built - in hardihood that has kept the two-party system alive, it frequently is a demonstration of the built - in competition that threatens to destroy both parties from the inside out.

There was the customary demonstration of kissing and making up when Democrats in New York state nominated Averell Harriman for governor early last Wednesday. Harriman's defeated rival, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., made the customary statement about letting bygones be bygones and the victory that lay just ahead if all the Democrats would march forward shoulder to shoulder. But all was not harmonious.

There was a rift in the lute — the fact, as acknowledged by many observers of New York state politics this year, that Harriman was the weaker candidate yet was the favorite of the party bosses controlled by Tammany Hall.

It meant that these bosses would rather risk defeat by the Republicans in the contest for the New York governorship than risk defeat by another of the Roosevelts who have made successful careers of being opposed by Tammany Hall.

Forum For The Little Fellows

Election of Dr. Eelco avn Kleffens of The Netherlands to the presidency of the U.N. General Assembly is a reminder at the opening of a new session that the United Nations is not composed entirely of its weaknsss.

On of its strong points in a world dominated by power politics is the forum it provides for the little fellows. All the presidents of the General Assembly have come from the minor powers among the 60 nations represented.

Even though the office carries more prestige than authority, the U.N. presidency has become a symbol of the vital difference between nations that respect the rights of minorities and nations that ride roughshod over all minorities that cannot defend themselves by force of arms.

It never has made any sense to authoritarians that anyone should be interested in defending the right of a helpless minority to its own views. Traditionally, the great powers either have destroyed the small ones or terrozied them. That is what the Soviet Union has done to its satellites. It is what Nazi Germany did to Czechoslovakia, Austria, Poland and The Netherlands. It is what Kaiser Wilhelm's Germany did to Belgium.

The United Nations may be an empty hope and a frustration to those who expected it to be much more than it has been. But to millions who had no hope left when the aggressors ran amuck the last time, a place where the little nations ca nbe heard and exert collective influence is better than no hope at all.

We always feel better when we see folks shaking hands instead of heads.

Working to forget gets a person lots farther than forgetting to work.

Miracle Demanded

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Eisenhower Needs To Unite GOP In Next Six Weeks

President Eisenhower has about six weeks in which to perform the political miracle that a small group of so-called "liberal" Republicans who are his intimate advisers evidently expect him to achieve. For in six weeks the President is supposed to inspire the disaffected Republican workers and make them work their heads off to get to the polls the indifferent voters who stay away when they aren't particularly aroused about issues or candidates.

It's a tough job, because Eisenhower is starting late. A Republican national committeeman told this writer the other day, for example, that he had checked with other national committeemen at the recent meeting at Cincinnati to ascertain if any of them had ever had a private conference with the President since he took office on Jan. 20, 1953. He couldn't find a single instance.

He added that he wasn't referring only to former Taft committeemen but to pro-Eisenhower committeemen as well.

Now a national committeeman is elected by the delegations at the national convention. He is one of the political leaders of his state and is higher in rank than a state chairman, who is supposed to be concerned largely with state and local offices.

Why didn't Eisenhower see something of the Republican national committeemen in the various states? Maybe it's because there has been a steady effort to discredit the Republican part by those in the Eisenhower camp who keep insisting that the President won in 1952 not because of his party but in spite of it.

AGAIN AND AGAIN, the statement has been made that Eisenhower ran ahead of the Republican ticket because his party was "reactionary," but this doesn't explain why his own campaign manager, Sen. Lodge, a progressive, was defeated in Massachusetts in 1952.

Nor does it explain those instances where the Republican nominees who won seats in Congress ran ahead of Eisenhower in 1952.

The fact remains that, in an off-year election, the name of the incumbent president isn't on the ballot. It's a out-and-out fight between the two major parties.

The real trouble with the Republican high command — the Eisenhower managers — this time is that they have thought they could win while alienating many of the members of the Republican party. There seems to be little thought about how to unite the party and considerable thought on how to keep it disunited. Many letters are pouring in to this writer from various states from Republicans who express that point of view. Typical among them are one from Maine and another from Connecticut.

THE CORESPONDENT in Maine, an eminent lawyer who has taken very little part in politics himself but who is in a position to know the undercurrents n his state, writes:

"In my opinion, the Republicans of Maine suffered but perhaps not as much as in some localities, through the breach between Sen. Taft and Gov. Dewey. As you may be well aware, the defeat of Sen. Brewster (Taft leader) by Governor Pyne doubtless left many wounded spirit which have not yet healed. . . .

"Two years ago last spring in the June primaries, Gov. Cross was nominated by the efforts of his friends, hitherto not actively engaged in regular party politics.

"Most unfortunately, Republican party workers have not only failed to forget this defeat of their candidate but the governor apparently turned to his followers, so to speak, in the primary for advice during this two-year interval, with the result that the Republican party organization, at least in our end of the state — and I think statewide — was so lukewarm in the recent election that very little, and in some districts nothing, was done of a political nature, especially insofar as seeing that the Republican voters exercised their franchise.

"It is this failure of responsible politicians to 'bury the hatchet' that, to my mind, has caused the result in Maine and will be very largely the cause of what may well result in the return of a Democratic House and Senate to Washington."

FROM A MERCHANT in a rural community in Connecticut comes this letter:

"This town is typical rural solid Republican. Many Republicans who vote faithfully year in and year out are McCarthy followers. In barroom political discussions and corner-store gab fests McCathy Republicans are 'shellacked' not only by Democrats but by their own brother Republicans.

"The result is that the McCarthy Republicans are resentful of this treatment from party members. In this state, with John Lodge up for re-election as governor and he is anti-McCarthy, I sense a spirit of vengeance, and fear that these McCarthy Republicans will stay at home. Most of them are Taft Republicans who year in and year out vote Republican. They are the real anti-Democrat party members.

"My conclusion is that the administration should in some way unite the party or our state will return to the Democrats in November.'

That's why Eisenhowe's job is a tough one. He has to secure harmony, inspire the party workers and get out the stay-at-home Republican vote. Can he do it in six weeks? That's the big unanswered question, for there has never heretofore been any such task of reinvigoating a political party accomplished in such a short interval.

Health To You

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Tips For Parents Of School-Agers

This column is addressed to the parents of school-age children; others may save themselves the trouble of reading it.

I am not one of those who feel that people should spend all their time thinking and worrying about their own health or that of others.

Rather it seems best to spend a little thought on developing a plan of procedure so far as health is concerned and then let this plan come into action through the development of food habits. It seems to me this is particularly desirable in the case of children.

One of the points which the mothers of school-age children should plan carefully is the diet. It does not matter much if a single meal is out of balance but it is important that the total food consumed in a whole day or throughout the week should contain those substances which a healthy child needs.

Milk is certainly one of the best foods and contains calcium needed in the bones and teeth and other important nutritive substances.

Balanced feeding includes some of each of the three major foodstuffs: proteins, including eggs, cheese, fish and meat; starches such as bread and potatoes; and fats as contained in butter or oleo for example.

Most of the minerals are present in the fruits and vegetables as are the vitamins needed.

Some thought from the health angle should also go into the selection of clothing. The clothing should be adjusted to the season and climate as well as the appearance. Too heavy clothing should not be worn in overheated rooms, for example.

Any kind of clothing delays the loss of heat from the body but some fibers and weaves do so more than others. Wool is warmer than cotton because the fibers keep air in the mesh and delay this cooling. Rubber clothing has special uses in wet or snowy weather but is not desirable for longtime wear since rubber is not porous and prevents normal evaporation of moisture from the skin.

Special attention should be given to the selection of shoes which fit

One final point can be mentioned though there are others which could be considered. Cleanliness of the skin assists the proper functioning and for some reason many youngsters find adequate bathing a great waste of time and have to be driven to it.

Yeh, It Might Be a Terrible Pain in the Neck!

War And Politics

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New weapons always alter not only the nature of war but the immediate objectives of diplomacy. Historic areas rise or fall in importance as the weapons for conquest or defense find greater range.

Sokolsky

When only the enemy on the border was a peril to the maintenance of a state, that peril might be removed by a diplomatic marriage, by gifts amounting to bribes for peace, by paying tribute or by pushing the enemy away from the border.

The dynastic wars of Europe, following upon the death of Charlemagne and continuing to Napoleon, were generally of such a nature.

What are the borders of a country — any country — since the atom and hydrogen bombs have come into existence? For instance, the little country, Great Britain, 94,278 square miles, a group of islands off the coast of northwestern Europe, no longer has a natural defense.

THAT DEFENSE used to be the English Channel, which had been crossed by Viking, Anglo - Saxon, Roman, Dane, and Norman, but not by Napleon or Hitler. Nevertheless both the Kaiser and Hitler strafed England ferociously, using airplanes and high explosives.

Today, civil life on those islands could be destroyed by nine or ten atom or hydrogen bombs hurled at London, Portsmouth, Liverpool, Birmingham, Hull, Glasgow, Manchester, Edinburgh.

And the job could probably be done in no time at all, either by Soviet Russia or the United States which are amply supplied with bombs for the purpose.

When a nation faces that reality, its diplomacy is modified to meet the situation. Granted the truth that every weapon of offense stimulates the development of counter-weapons of defense, the risk that Coventry could be repeated on so vast a scale that Great Britain might be reduced in a few hours forces upon those in charge of British foreign relations the necessity of avoiding, for as long as possible, a war that could be fought in her skies.

TO THE PRACTICAL official, it matters little who permitted such a situation to develop. He is not necessarily an historian and he cannot afford to concern himself too much with his own or other people's blunders.

That, perhaps, is why Sir Winston Churchill can still sleep at night. The practical statesman deals with what faces him today. And today, Sir Winston Churchill and Anthony Eden are faced by possible or probable extinction, for their country, should war come.

Great Britain has for most of her history managed to fight her wars away from home. The past two wars were in her skies; the next war could destroy her. The British program is abased on peace at almost any price.

Primarily the British are interested in trade, but their economic situation is not bad. The so-called "Dollar Gap" has been closed. Brtish trade is thriving and British wares are being sold even in this country which are not essentially export commodities, for instance, bottled waters of various kinds.

If trade were the only consideration for the total change in British policy, it would be possible to develop considerable bitterness over the ingratitude and immorality of a nation of shopkeepers.

THE ADDITIONAL factor of the atom and hydrogen bombs and the other unconventional weapons which have been let loose upon mankind raises other issues than ingratitude. Dead nations, like dead men, are not problems in morals; they are merely records in the sands of time.

A nation that can be bombed to extinction has as its first task, survivial. It dares not gamble on growth which in an effete era is called colonialism.

What is said of Great Britain is equally true of France and Italy, and while in this country we organize Civil Defense to meet the prospect, the more realistic French suspect that if the Russians do not bomb them, the Americans will.

As a matter of fact, Europe's experience in World War II was that the United States bombed first and fastest in time of war and then gave money to repair the physical damage.

It is a serious problem for British, French and Italian statesmen to hold the friendship of the United States while avoiding the ravages of Soviet Russia. The way some of them go about it, they may lose out with both countries, which so often happens to those who are in the middle.

Tolerance Of Intolerance

By TRUMAN TWILL

When you think about it, the hardest part of living in a country where the Constitution says a man can't be hung up by his thumbs for what he thinks is being tolerant of intolerance.

Here was this college president the other day telling the student body at the opening of a new school year that the United States was founded by dissenters and it would be a sad day if dissenters were made to shut up. That is obvious, of course, or should be.

What is not obvious—and should be—is the role in this setup for the people who try to shut up the dissenters. They, too, have their rights and serve a purpose. It also would be a sad day if the dissenters were made to shut up.

Tolerance in the United States must be an open-ended proposition. It must go on ad infinitum. Yet, no sooner had the first dissenters begun to take potshots at the hated Red Coats in the Revolution than ttey began to take potshots at their fellow colonists who dissented.

They pulled the same boner pulled centuries ago by the early Christians who claimed they were working in behalf of Christianity when they organized crusades to terrorize and murder non-believers. There is nothing new about the mistake, but it doesn't get any easier to bear with repetition.

The man who says the moon is not made of green cheese is a dissenter. It is well established by this time that if he wants to say this it is his privilege, just as it was the privilege of Wilbur Glenn Voliva to believe the world was flat. That part of it is easy.

But then along comes a fellow who voices dissent to the dissent. He wants to say that the fellow who says the moon is not made of green cheese should not be permitted to say so; that Voliva should be gagged into silence; that the dissenter should not be allowed to dissent.

But he, too, has a right to be heard. He has a job to do. The right to dissent does not go so far and stop. It keeps on going forever. And as it goes, people learn from the sound and faulty reasoning of other people what the score is. They made a free choice in the market place of ideas.

That is tolerance.

That is what the Constitution aims to protect.

That is the way people with determination finally arrive at an approximation of the truth—by letting everybody speak his piece. It is the neatest trick of the Christian era when it is performed right. And the fact is performed routinely by millions of people day in and day out is a testimonial to the probability that civilization is resting on something more solid than mechanical refrigeration, the buttonhole technique for removing the vermiform appendix and the whims of nuclear scientists.

This college president the other day who was telling the student body about dissent was on the right track. College isn't the only place where it is possible to learn about open-ended tolerance, but it is one of the best places. Every important book in a college library once represented a dissenting opinion. Most of the books were burned at one time or another by people who were opposed to the dissenters and many of these people, in turn, were burned figuratively or literally, for their point of view.

We are sorry we didn't think of this in time for Constitution Day, now better known as Citizenship Day. We don't think it has ever occurred to some of the loudest celebrants of Citizenship Day that the Constitution means what it says.

The United States annually wastes 50 million tons of grain straw that might be used in valuable pulp for paper products.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

All Done By Boxtops

Following a flood of nickels running into a fortune for a couple on a TV program, a Frisco young woman, Mary McCrea, won $75,158, her weight in gold (how she wishes she hadn't dieted!), in a Lever Brothers box-top slogan contest the other day. Interest in hard work and thrift is getting a terrific knocking around through this easy dough trend, and the character who began life on a shoestring is now pretty widely regarded as a schmoe. The man who used to boast, "I had to work as shoeshine boy to help keep the family together," now says, if he wishes to show alertness, "I was a poor boy in a poor family, but, brother, we all covered these jackpot contests!"

We heard a father trying to interest a child in the Lincoln story. "Abraham Lincoln was a great man," he began. "He spent much of his life in dire poverty."

"Why, Daddy? the child asked. "Couldn't he get any box tops?'

"His family had nothing except what could be scraped from the hardest toil," popper went on.

"What's toil, Daddy?' the child asked.

"Its work. You know what work is don't you darling?"

"Its trying to get the TV picture in focus when the set is out of order, Daddy."

"Lincoln lived in a log cabin with dirt floors and bare walls," father continued patiently.

"What for, Daddy? Couldn't he answer enough questions to get his house painted inside and out?"

-:-

"He wore ragged homespun clothes, had no shoes much of the time and was often without food," Daddy said.

"Where was Warren Hull and Strike It Rich in those days, Daddy?" the child asked.

"Lincoln had little schooling and had to study on the floor by the light of a rude fireplace, my child," said father with a sigh.

"But why didn't he get on some program and win a year's supply of electric bulbs and maybe a scholarship, Popper?'

"Abraham Lincoln had to walk through the snow to a brook and wash in ice cold water on winter mornings," the parent persisted, a little weary by this time.

"I know why. Because there was no big soap company quiz contest, Popper," said the child.

"Until he was a grown man he toiled and starved to keep himself and the family in food and shelter," said Daddy.

"Didn't Mr. Lincoln have a sister who could win a beer company beauty contest, Daddy?" the little one asked incredulously.

"Dear Child, Lincoln split rails for a few cents a day. He worked from dawn to dark and became known as The Rail Splitter."

"Why, Daddy? Couldn't he tell anybody in what country the Mississippi River was located or even identify My Country 'Tis of Thee?" asked the child.

"He became a lawyer and rode on horseback a hundred miles to get to a court," father went on.

"Was it because they wouldn't let a horse on radio panels, Popper, or didn't he know the secret word." the kid asked.

"You know, my child, that Lincoln won a seat in the legislature an became a great man. You know, don't you, how he got to the White House?" the fond parent, now pretty groggy asked.

"Sure I do, Daddy," the child concluded. "He wrote a SLOGAN IN TWENTY-FIVE WORDS OR LESS."

Ike has decided yachting isn't bad and will use a medium sized "day cruiser," which was once an escort vessel for Truman's Williamsburg. . . We understand the President would have been satisfied with an outboard motorboat except that, as a golfer, he couldn't stand the constant "putt-putt-putt." There is no two-putt motor on the market.

Ralph Gould, one the most famous of America's old country-store owners, died in Maine recently at 84. He had written three books after reaching the late sixties and we loved these cracks from his "Yankee Boyhood": "I was raised in what was generally called bitter poverty but I never knew it."

"The farm was so rocky we couldn't keep cats because they had to walk so far to find dirt that they got lost," and speaking of the hard work he did as a kid, "Looking back, this never hurt me, but you would have to use force to get me to try it again."

Hays Defends Past Record In Congress

Representative Wayne L. Hays, in a campaign speech at St Clairsville Wednesday night, reviewed his six years of service from the Ohio 18th District and asked that this record be considered his principal "campaign document" in seeking a fourth term in the House of Representatives.

"My opponent (Walter J. Hunston of Salem) thus far has named three main planks in his platform," Hays said. "First, he says that he is opposed to admission of Red China to the UN. On July 23, 1953, and again in July 15, 1954, I voted against admitting Red China to the United Nations.

"Second, he says he stands for protection for the pottery and glass industries. On at least three occasions I have voted for adequate protection for these industries, have made repeated representations to the Tariff Commission in their interest, and have asked the President to reconsider his rejection of the petition for relief filed by the domestic glass producers.

"Third, he says he is for adequate educational facilities. The record, as well as the written testimony, of the National Education Association and the Ohio Education Association, bears witness to the fruitfulness of my endeavors on behalf of education," Hays concluded.

Convicts

about 300 participated in the fight with the troopers and guards.

The patrolmen went into the yards with orders to shoot if necessary, Lt. Harry Brigham reported.

"They were throwing rocks at us as big as my head," he said. "We had to force them back with gunfire. They broke and ran when we opened fire and we cleared the yard."

For a time several guards were held in cell blocks with convicts, leading to reports that two guards had been killed. They later were released.

One guard, Jefferson Genry, was beaten and knocked unconscious. Another, Oscar Carrington, was shot in the foot.

Warden Ralph E. Eidson said he was sure the rioters had no guns. Early reports that the prisoners exchanged gunfire with state troopers and guards apparently were based on noises which sounded like shots as the buildings burned.

Thomas E. Whitecotton, director of corrections, said the riot evidently was touched off by only a very small group of hardened criminals "something they tried to do once before several months ago."

"On that occasion,' he said, "the outburst was nipped before it got a good start. The trouble started during a period when the guard force was small."

NAACP Files Suit To Prohibit Rezoning

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP) — Negro parents were advised last night by representatives of the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People to continue to send their children to two predominantly white schools here and then take them home if they are denied admission.

Charles Francis of Dayton, public relations director of the NAACP, said the parents thus would not be keeping the children out of school but that "the superintendent and the school board will be doing it."

Francis made his suggestion at a meeting of Hillsboro's newly organized chapter o fthe NAACP. The school board says it is listing as truant Negroes who do not attend classes at the school to which they are assigned.

The meeting followed filing of suit in the U.S. District Court in Cincinnati to prohibit the school board from enforcng a rezoning rule which would send most Negro pupils back to the Lincoln School which has been an all-Negro institution. Negro youngsters had enrolled at the other schools at the start of this term following the recent Supreme Court ban of school segregation.

The suit claimed the rezoning amounted to segregation.

In the past, all Negro pupils went to the Lincoln School. The other two schools were all white. Under the rezoning a few Negro pupils will attend the former all white schools.

U.S. District Court Judge John W. Druffel set Sept. 29 as the date for a hearing on the injunction suit. He declined to issue an immediate restrainig order.

Hoover Says Crime May Reach New High

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover says crime in America will reach a record high this year if the present rate keeps up.

Hoover gave this estimate in reporting last night that the national crime rate for the first half of 1954 climbed 8.5 per cent over last year's level during the same period.

In the semiannual issue of the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, compiled from police reports from across the nation, Hoover said 1,136,140 major crimes were committed in January-June of this year.

That's 88,850 more than a year ago and figures out to a major crime every 13.8 seconds.

Army Cites Russia Radio Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says Russia is aiming its propaganda radio at American servicemen stationed on the big and isolated air base of Thule, in northwestern Greenland.

It cites the Thule-beamed voice of Russia as part of the general Red propaganda effort directed "at undermining the American soldiers' morale, especially in foreign lands where American troops are stationed."

Reference to Thule is contained in a new troop training pamphlet, "Defense Against Enemy Propaganda," now being circulated by the Army. It does not discuss what, if any, effect the propaganda has on U. S. troops.

The pamphlet outlines the objectives and types of Communist propaganda — "white" or open proaganda where the source identifies itself, "gray" which emanates from an unidentified sources, and "black' which comes from a source pretending to be someone or something else.

In connection with the beaming of Soviet propaganda at Thule, the Army pamphlet says:

"Troops there hear a program conducted by an anonymous feminine disc jockey, dubbed Moscow Molly by the American soldiers. In addition to the recorded rumbas and fox trots the soft female voice quotes editorials from Pravda, the leading Soviet party newspaper in Russia. Although the men tune in only to hear dance music introduced by a feminine voice, which is automatically American in accent, they are, nonetheless, subjected to Communist propaganda. The pamphlet asserts the Soviet government attaches high importance to its propaganda program—including the operation of an estimated 6,000 special local schools, about 177 regional schools and approximately a dozen advanced schools for specialized training in propaganda dissemination.

In discussing the pamphlet, Army officers said today Communist radio stations are active in other areas of the world where American forces are stationed, including Japan and Europe.

Child Finds Pistol In Drawer, Kills Self

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP) — Three year-old Deborah Lee Conn yesterday poked her tiny fingers in a dresser drawer, as little tots will.

Her probing fingers pulled out a pistol. She turned it in her hands, examining the strange object. Then she looked into the barrel and somehow pulled the trigger.

Deborah slumped to the floor and died instantly. The .32 caliber pistol fell back into the drawer.

That's how police reconstructed the death of the tiny daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Conn, who moved to the Portsmouth atomic energy plant area two years ago from Floyd County, Ky.

The father is co-proprietor of Conn's Motel in Piketon, in the heart of the atomic area.

be appealed to "the highest authority in the country."

Kingston W. Ehrich, Racine real estate man who sparked an earlier drive in which Fleming's hometown retained a civilian attorney for the defendant, said:

"Racine will raise a sizable defense fund to help rush an appeal."

The first step in an appeal would be to take the case to the judge advocate of the 5th Army for review and for advice of the commanding general. Appeals may eventually be carried to the President.

Fleming, who contended that his actions in three years of captivity were designed to spare fellow prisoners, accepted the verdict without show of emotion. But he told newsmen:

"Although I have lost this battle, I don't expect to lose in the end. . .

"I think American justice will prevail not only for me but for the thousands of prisoners who came out of prison camps with a halo of suspicion over them. My conscience is perfectly clear."

The court found Fleming guilty of collaboration by making recordings used for Communist propaganda purposes and by leading prison discussions which reflected opinions that the United Nations and the United States were illegal aggressors in Korea.

Fleming was acquitted of two other charges. These were that he informed on other prisoners and that he willingly and wrongfully injured a fellow prisoner by jumping on the foot of an American corporal.

Steelworkers To Stay In CIO, Leader Says

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—David J. McDonald announced today that he had no intention of leading his 1,200,00-member United Steelworkers out of the CIO.

The USW president called for the 3,000 delegates to the steel workers biennial convention to adopt a resolution aimed at closer "labor unity."

McDonald was cheered as he discounted reports of a conflict with CIO President Walter Reuther and called newspaper stories about a possible withdrawal "figments of their imagination."

H-Bomb Effects Kill Japanese Fisherman

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese fisherman dusted by radioactive ash from a U. S. H-bomb blast at Bikini March 1 died tonight in a Tokyo hospital.

Aikichi Kuboyama, 40, radioman on the fishing boat Lucky Dragon, was believed to be the world's first death resulting from a hydrogen bomb explosion.

The fisherman had been suffering from jaundice complications brought on by radiation from the Bikini bomb, Japanese doctors said.

His illness and death is a matter of great international significance for Japan.

This country has been bitterly critical of the United States tests, and is reported to have presented Washington with a bill for several million dollars.

Kuboyama was one of 23 fishermen aboard the Lucky Dragon, which was approximately 80 miles from Bikini when the test bomb was exploded.

The other fishermen also are hospitalized but appear to be recovering.

ficient," the psychologist stated During the quizzing, general behaviour and mannerisms are noted, also.

"Children with 25 to 50 per cent retardation should be assigned to special classes," Dr. Wagner declared. A six-year-old child who is 25 per cent retarded would have a mental age of only 4½ years, and therefore would be unable to perform first grade work, he said.

He said the problem of the mentally delayed school child is not growing, but that society has become more acutely conscious of it.

Dr. Wagner said the psychological work needed on slow learners should be done by local personnel, with state department personnel in a supervisory role.

Since 1945, the Ohio Department of Education has offered $1,000 yearly to counties to help pay the salary of a school psychologist, Wagner said. There are 98 psychologists in the employe of schools now, four of them in county rural school systems.

Assisting Dr. Wagner were R. A. Horn and Miss Edith Allen, both of the department's slow-learning division.

Secretary Of Labor Asks Union Support

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — Secretary of Labor Mitchell today appealed to a major union for the "full support, understanding and confidence" of organized labor to help in making the work of his department effective.

In a talk prepared for the convention of the CIO United Steel workers of America, Mitchell declared his department has "conscientiously attempted to put the national interest first and act in the light of the public welfare."

"I have tried to carry out the instructions of President Eisenhower, who told me he wanted a secretary of labor not influenced by one side or the other but by an overriding interest in the mass of the working people," the secretary said.

"We have not been successful in all our efforts. No one is. The man never lived who could bat 1.000 for a year."

He said the labor department is striving to foster conditions under which labor's aspirations can be attained.

'Impulse Business'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—When Ike and Mike Katz opened a new super drugstore in Memphis recently, they sold $6,000 worth of parakeets in three days.

They also sold a pet skunk, a monkey (for $39.95), many number of goldfish, $4,100 worth of nylon stockings, and 40 alligators.

These may seem odd items for a drugstore to stock, but they aren't at all unusual for the two Katz brothers. Ike, now 75, and Mike, 67, long have been known as two of the greatest showmen in the field.

They pioneered in discovering the importance of "impulse business."

"This means that when a customer comes in a store to buy one thing," Ike explained, "he sees another thing—and buys that, too. Well stock anything that catches the eye."

The brothers started with a fruit and candy store in Kansas City 40 years ago and took in about $18 a day. Even then Ike was selling oranges three for a dime when his competitors were charging a nickel each.

Operating on a mass-sale, cut-rate principle, the brothers built up a chain of 32 super drugstores in five states — Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Oklahoma and Tennessee — that will gross some 40 million this year. Their stores stock 31,000 items, ranging from a package of gum to room air-conditioners.

"I got into the drugstore business by accident," recalled Ike. "During the first world war the government put out an edict that only drugstores could stay open after 6 in the evening.

"At that time we were handling mostly candy, ice cream and tobacco. But the day the edict came out I bought some drug supplies and hired a pharmacist. I didn't know for sure then whether aspirin was a headache cure or a hair tonic."

Ike, crippled since boyhood by a baseball injury, walks with a cane. He enjoys being called "the Iron Duke," also enjoys big gestures. Once a year he buys out the Kansas City ball park so his customers can see a game for nothing. He usually also endows two free symphony concerts each year. The firm, operating on the principle that good philanthropy is good business, also contributes heavily to hospitals, religious organizations, and charities.

"If you operate in a big way," said Ike, "you can't live small.'

Here are the keys, he feels, to his own business success:

"You have to be bold. You have to advertise. You have to show engenuity. You have to have faith in the country and a belief in the future. And you have to use your head for other things besides sleeping and eating.

Ike started his original fruit stand in Kansas City with a $198 grubstake he had saved as a young news butcher on trains carrying prospectors toward the Klondike.

"On the side I was renting the prospectors straw mattresses at fifty cents a night," he said. "When the company found it out, they fired me."

Of all the thousands of customers he waited on in his drugstores, Ikes favorite is a lady who returned a watch and wanted her money back.

"What's wrong with the watch?" he asked.

"Nothing,' she said. "When I bought it, my husband was sick and I needed a watch so I could give him his medicine at the right time. But hes well now, and I don't need it anymore."

Kuhlman Named City Solicitor

Police Chief McGuckin To Take State Course

COLUMBIANA — Jack Kuhleman, a new attorney in town, who was admitted to the bar early this year, was appointed village solicitor by Mayor Walter Thomas, Tuesday evening, to fill the unexpired term of John L. Hutson. The appointment was confirmed by council.

Hutson announced his resignation two weeks ago because the duties were encroaching on time needed for his private practice. He was re-appointed by Mayor Thomas the first of the year for the two-year term ending Dec. 31, 1955.

Kuhlman will attend the meeting of the Ohio Municipal League, of which Columbiana is a member, at the Neil House in Columbus, Sept. 29-Oct. 1. Council, at its last meeting, agreed to pay the expenses of any village officials who would attend the meeting.

Chief of Police William McGuckin will leave Sunday to attend a school for police officials to be conducted two weeks at London, O., by the State Bureau of Investigation and Identification.

McGuckin is one of the 37 police officials selected from the 88 counties of the state for the course. The village will pay his expenses.

COUNCIL prevailed upon Clerk S. Richard Orr to reconsider his proposed resignation Oct. 1 by offering to consider plans to give him some part-time help. The increasing volume of work with the growing load of details was the main reason for the clerk's desire to be rid of the job.

Civil Defense Director George Seederly, although he is allowed a fund of about $1,000 a year to spend at his discretion, was before council with a proposal for improved communications, and his plan for the installation of a radio set in police headquarters in city hall at a cost of about $550 was confirmed.

Seederly is also working toward more units for the fire department in the defense set-up. His expenses so far this year have been less than $100 of which $75 was for electric heating of the ground observer tower. The Mellinger Lumber Co. of Leetonia donated the lumber for the tower.

Councilman Charles Fisher expressed himself in favor of more fire and police equipment, including finger print and other identification facilities after Seederly had spoken of the problems that would face Columbiana in a mass evacuation from Youngstown. Maintenance of additional police radio would be about $100 a year, he said.

POSSIBILITY of obtaining a capacity tank truck for the fire department was discussed. Seederly is looking toward a daily round the-clock vigil at the ground observer tower. He also plans to equip auxiliary police with white helmets, badges, night sticks and other accoutrements.

Growing interst in the ground observer corps is shown by the 68 reservations for the special bus trip to the Youngstown jet air base Saturday. Busses will load in front of the Methodist Church and leave at 8:30 a.m. Only those who have made reservations can be accommodated.

Richard Souder was before Council relative to a housing development planned to face the entrace to Firestone Park, leading from Park Ave. to Pavilion 4. Council will meet with the Park Board at 8 p.m. today to consider some details.

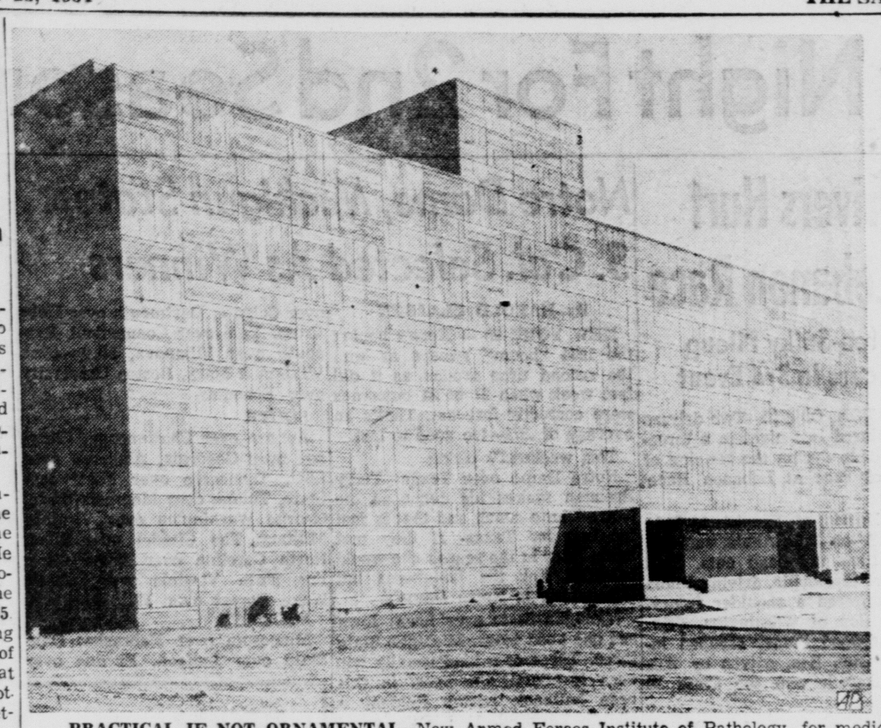

Souder is acquiring from Harry Eberhardt and Irvin Brittain the allotment they purchased some time ago and the house that was moved there from the Columbiana Motor Co.'s premises. The plan is to widen the 20-foot drive to a 40-foot street, with the houses on the west side.

AN EASEMENT was accepted from the Y.&S. Railway Co. to the village for the extension of water and sewer lines under its right of way to the area north of Firestone Park, where more houses are being built.

Specifications for the paving of Seventh St. have not yet been received from the engineer.

Commander George Snoke of Firestone American Legion Post presented council for the post with a 3x5 foot flag for the council chamber.

A special meeting of the Booster Club has been called for 9 p.m. today in the High School building to preview films of the Columbiana-Poland game here last Friday, and discuss plans for the game at McDonald tomorrow evening.

The plan must be approved by the American Baptist Nonvention next May.

The two agencies employ more than 1,000 missionaries in the United States, Alaska, Cuba, Haiti, Puerto Rico, Mexico, Nicaragua, and El Salvador.

Quakers Go To Ravenna Friday Night For 2nd Season Game

Weights Of Both Squads Even; Tilt To Start At 8 In Ravenna

By LOWELL FLEISCHER

With one victory under their belts, the Salem Quakers travel to Ravenna Friday night to take on the Ravenna Ravens, also victorious in their first encounter of the season.

While the Barrettmen defeated Conneaut 21-14 in the final 36 seconds of play last week, the Ravens downed Bedford 26-6.

The two squads will be about even in weight for Friday night's battle. The Ravenna line averages about 170 pounds, as does the Quaker line, while in the backfield the Ravens will be just slightly heavier, going at 160 with the Salem backs averaging 155.

Quaker Coach Ben Barrett will go with the same lineup he started last week. Larry Stoffer and Chuck Harris will start at the end slots for Salem. Larry Hainan and John Ehrhart will be at the tackle positions, with Bob Domencetti and Dick Doyle slated to go at the guard positions. Domencetti, a four-year man, calls the Quaker defensive signals. Junior Frank Corso will start at center.

DALE MIDDEKER will go at left half, with Captain Jim Beard at right half. Beard and Middeker were Salem's leading ground gainers last week and between them scored the Quakers' three touchdowns. Junior Jack Alxander will again start at fullback, with Ray Hertel calling the signals at the quarterback slot.

Hertel was getting away some good passes during an intra-squad scrimmage last night at Reilly Field. Last week he completed four of 12 passes, two of them going for TDs.

Barrett may make a few changes in his defensive lineup for Friday's tilt. Coming in on defense for the Quakers will be line backers John Todd and Dick Saltsman. Herb Haschen is also expected to see action for the Quakers on defense, while the Salem line will switch around a little when the Quakers defend their goal.

THE RAVENS have five lettermen back from last season, with four of them on the starting eleven.

Max Cole, a 175-pound senior will start at the left end spot for Ravenna. Going at left tackle for the Ravens will be another senior, Russ Line, who weighs 165. Another senior, Dick Naturale, going at 150, will be at the right guard position for Ravenna.

Over the ball at center will be 185-pound senior Bill Tatiska. The starting right guard slot for the Ravens will go to Frank Meduri, a senior and the smallest man on the Ravenna team, weighing 145. The biggest man on the Raven line, Don DiMaso, will start at right tackle. He weighs about 190. Ralph Jonson will complete the Ravenna line at right end. He is a senior and weighs 160.

Vince DiGiranomo will be at the quarterback and Tony Troia will go at the left halfback slot. Both are seniors and weigh 150 pounds each. Paul Mandalin, the only junior on the starting eleven, will go at the right half spot. He weighs 155.

THE BIGGEST THREAT to the Quakers appears to be the Raven captain, Paul Reedy. Reedy is a senior and weighs 185. He is a shifty runner and a favorite target for passes.

Frank Smouse is in his first year as coach of Ravenna and is looking forward to a good season.

The Ravens are expected to be stiff opposition for the favored Quakers. Last year the locals won their contest with Ravenna 14-7 on a long pass in the last two minutes.

The 18th meeting of the two team will get under way at 8 p.m. at the Ravenna Stadium. No adult tickets were sent to Salem but they can be purchased at Ravenna. Ducats will cost one dollar for grandstand seats and 75 cents for general admission.

Student tickets may be bought at Faculty Manager Fred Cope's office for 40 cents. A chartered bus will take many SHS students to the game.

Boosters To Meet

The regular weekly meeting of the Salem Booster Club will be held tonight at 7:30 in the Memorial Building. Richard Barrett, former grid coach at East High in Youngstown, will be guest speaker. Barrett is a brother of Salem Coach Ben Barrett.

Movies of last week's Conneaut game will be shown and the Quaker coach will review the game and give a preview of this week's Ravenna tilt.

Mantle, Berra Safe, Others 'Watch Out'

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra are safe but the rest of the New York Yankees had better watch their step.

Casey Stengel listed Mantle and Berra as his non-expendable men yesterday as he signed his fourth 2-year contract to manage the Yanks through 1956.

That doesn't mean the rest of the club is on the block. Most of them, of course, still will be around when it comes time to report for spring training at St. Petersburg.

As Stengel put it, "I would listen on any of the others."

Casey talked for about an hour at a press conference following the signing, about his plans for strengthening the Yanks next year. He said he still was surprised that he didn't make it six straight although he paid tribute to Cleveland because "they beat us in a good fair way."

"If anybody is interested in any New York Yankee ball players, and I should think they would be," said Stengel, "I suggest they get in touch with Mr. Weiss (General Manager George Weiss). He'll be glad to listen. I think the other clubs (except Cleveland) had better consider their own personnel. I should think they'd get down to business and strengthen their own club instead of worrying about what the Yankees are doing. The Yanks are not finished. I have to find some way to catch Cleveland and so do six other clubs."

Apparently Stengel hasn't appreciated some of the cutting remarks about the failure of the Yanks to come up with enough new players from their farm system.

"The Yankee farm system isn't dead," he said. "We came up with Bob Grim and Bill Skowron this year and we may have two more next year. I would have to say they finally did catch up with us. After five years I find out that I forgot to win 140 games."

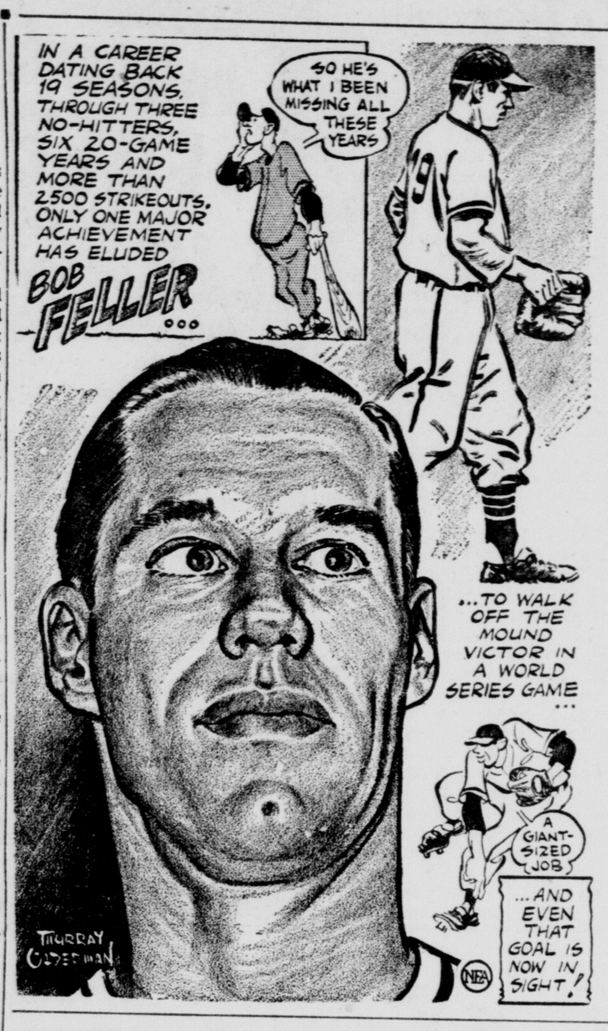

How about next year?

"I think we're going to win every year."

Stengel signed for the same "exceptional money," to remain the highest paid manager in the majors. No figures were announced but he was reported to be working on a $75,000 basic salary with a bonus and profit sharing deal that would bring the total to the $95,000 mark.

4th Place Spots In Leagues' Standings Prod Teams On

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

On the theory that $750 is still $750, our teams today retained a vital interest in the makeup of the final major league standings.

The $750 represents the approximate share per player of the World Series money for members of the fourth-place teams in each league. And fourth place still is quite a battle in both leagues.

In the National only a game separates Cincinnati, now in fourth from the fifth-place Philadelphia Phillies. Boston leads Detroit by a game and a half in the American League.

The Redlegs have just two games left and the Phillies have six to play.

Cincinnati still is screaming about a 3-1 loss in Milwaukee yesterday when a ninth inning rally was brought to an abrupt end by a freak double play.

With runners on first and second and one out, pinch-hitter Bob Borkowski struck out on a wild pitch. While catcher Del Crandall chased the ball, Gus Bell dashed from second to third and Borkowski headed for first in a hurry since if the catcher drops a third strike he usually has to throw out the batter at first.

Crandall threw to third baseman Eddie Mathews in a vain attempt to catch Bell and Mathews fired across the diamond when he saw Borkowski racing for first. His throw hit Borkowski in the back and into right field and Bell scored from third.

Then the umpires took over. After an 18-minute conference they ruled Borkowski was out automatically on his strikeout since first base had been occupied. Then they ruled Borkowski had interfered with the attempt to catch Bell because he drew a throw to first. The rules say in this case the other runner, Bell, is out. The two outs ended the game and the Reds filed a formal protest.

There was no room for protests at Philadelphia where the Phils walloped Pittsburgh twice, 12-1 and 5-1. Robin Roberts won his 22nd game, a four-hitter, in the nightcap.

Detroit beat Baltimore 4-1 on Steve Gromek's four-hitter and Boston wasn't scheduled.

In other action the American League champion Cleveland Indians equalled a 27-year-old record for the most games won by beating Chicago 3-1 for their 110th victory. The National League champion New York Giants bowed 3-0 to rookie Karl Spooner of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who set a major league record by striking out 15 in his first start in the Big Time.

The New York Yankees defeated Washington 3-0 with Tommy Byrne winning his third game as the Yanks came up with a triple play, fifth in the majors this season.

Brooks Lawrence won his 14th game for the St. Louis Cardinals, checking the Chicago Cubs 6-3 on five hits. Two of the three Cub runs came on a fifth-inning homer by pitcher Dave Cole.

Don Mossi, a rookie used mostly in relief, and Al Smith combined their talents in the Cleveland victory. Mossi shut out the White Sox through the first eight innings and Smith drove in two of the three Indian runs with a double in the second inning and a triple in the fourth.

Spooner, just up from Fort Worth of the Texas League, held the Giants to three singles, only one of them a hard hit ball. He fanned six in a row at one point and broke Cliff Melton's old rookie strikeout record of 13.

Carter Fixes Sights On Lightweight Crown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pug-nosed Jimmy Carter, bolstered with another rugged win, today fixed his sights on the elusive lightweight crown he lost last March. And he offered a fervent prayer that he wouldn't draw a third postponement of his title rematch with Champion Paddy DeMarco, a fellow New Yorker.

Carter belted out a 10-round unanimous decision over Freddie (Babe) Herman in a nationally televised fight last night. Only 80 fans paying $1,241.58 gross turned up in the 16,000 seat Cow Palace.

The Carter - DeMarco title bout now is scheduled Nov. 17 at the Cow Palace.

Notre Dame, Michigan State, S. Cal. Selected As Winners

By HAROLD CLAASEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Here's hoping the 1954 "boom" sweeps as well the second time around as it did last week when 27 of 31 outcomes were correctly forecast. That's an average of .871—too good to last.

This weekend's picks:

Notre Dame over Texas: Terry Brennan makes his debut as the Notre Dame coach and that is just too bad for Texas. If they met again later in the season one would have to pick the Longhorns but this opener is Notre Dame's.

Michigan State over Iowa: Iowa has one good team, Michigan State three. Three of a kind usually win even if one of the aces, in this case halfback LeRoy Bolden, is slightly battered. This is the game you will see if you watch your TV.

Southern California over Pittsburgh: The Trojan trio of backs—Dandoy, Arnett and Clarke—are too much for the Easterners who still are a year away from the peak.

Oklahoma over TCU: Both registered expected triumphs last weekend but the string has run out for the Texans. Oklahoma showed massive power in its outing at California.

Illinois over Penn State: Penn State is strong in the line and at end but lacks backfield strength. Illinois has everything, including J. C. Caroline.

Georgia Tech over Florida: This is not Florida's year.

Duke over Pennsylvania: Duke is an all-veteran outfit while even the uniforms are new at Pennsylvania. Steve Sebo, Penn's new coach, has 13 lettermen back but hasn't had the time to install his new system thoroughly.

Michigan over Washington: The West Coast team beat Utah by only a single point.

Army over South Carolina: The Cadets will forsake the airlanes to gambol on the ground.

Mississippi over Kentucky: Kentucky hasn't the horses this year and Mississippi rated one of the best in the nation.

UCLA over Kansas: Kansas below par.

Baylor over Vanderbilt: L. G. Dupre, the player with no first name, will be called plenty by Vanderbilt fans.

Rutgers at Princeton: These two teams started all this business back in 1869 and Princeton is the favorite this time.

Oklahoma A&M over Texas A&M: There's a manpower shortage at Texas A&M.

These others without comment:

Indians Tie Yankees' Games-Won Record

CLEVELAND (AP)—Now for No. 111 and a new American League record for games won, the Cleveland Indians told one another today, an off-day in their schedule.

In three games with fifth-place Detroit, starting here Friday afternoon, the ndians need gain only one triumph to surpass the biggest winner in American League history — the 1927 Ruth - Gehrig Yankees of New York.

Bob Lemon, probably tuning up to pitch the World Series opener against the New York Giants, will get the first try against the Tigers.

The Tribe's 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox before 4,662 chilly fans here yesterday enabled the Indians to gain at least a tie with the 1927 Yanks for the league's games · won record. And it also enabled them to end their season with Chicago at 11 games apiece.

Don Mossi pitched five-hit ball, and the 24-year-old southpaw would have had a shutout if outfielder Jim Rivera hadn't tripled to lead off the ninth and scored on rookie Ron Jackson's sacrifice fly. It was Mossi's sixth victory against a lone defeat, and it lowered his earned-run average to a remarkable 1.94 for 93 innings.

Outfielder Al Smith was the big noise in the Cleveland attack. He doubled after Mossi's single in the second inning to drive home the first run, and tripled in the fourth and scored the last run on Bob Avila's single.

The other Cleveland score, in the third, came without a hit as losing hurler Jack Harshman filled the bases with walks and George Strickland drove in a run with a sacrifice fly.

Plastic Face Helmets OKd For Gridders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Parents of high school football players have won their battle to allow the youngsters to wear plastic face masks. The Ohio High School Athletic Assn. yesterday reversed a ban against the protective coverings.

H. W. Emswiler, state high school athletic commissioner, had ruled such masks could be used only to protect an injury, not to prevent one. He based his decision on interpretations of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. which he said claims the masks might injure opposing players.

A storm of protests followed from parents, school officials and some high school coaches. Emswiler called a special meeting of the association's board of directors, and later announced the ban lifted.

The board said use of nonbreakable, molded plastic masks with rounded edges was permissable as regular protective equipment, on an experimental basis. Masks made of wire or rubber-covered steel can be used only to protect an old injury, the board said.

Game officials were instructed to inspect all masks before each game and to rule out those with sharp edges. Emswiler said the NCA ruling stemmed from the idea that face masks, while protecting the wearer, offered an injury threat to opposing players.

He said a check will be made at season's end to determine whether any players had been injured because of the masks.

AT FULL STRENGTH

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State football team will be at nearly full strength when the Buckeyes tackle Indiana here Saturday, Coach Woody Hayes said yesterday. Two of his top men who were injured are expected to be ready for the opener. They are quarterback Dave Leggett and Dick Brubaker. Both had pulled leg muscles.

League Ruling To Be Issued On Redlegs-Braves Contest

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The records show the Cincinnati Redlegs dropped a 3-1 decision to the Milwaukee Braves here yesterday, but it will take a league ruling, expected some time today, to make it official.

The game wound up in a hassle over the umpire's decision on a strikeout and a throw on a player who already was out. Manager Birdie Tebbetts immediately protested the decision.

At Cincinnati, league President Warren Giles said he would rule today after getting an official report from the umpires.

The Reds, meanwhile, went on to Chicago but Tebbetts said they'd rush back to Milwaukee if his protest should be upheld. Both Milwaukee and Cincinnati have an open date today.

If the protest should be upheld, there was the possibility the Reds would make the trip back to Milwaukee for only one pitch.

This was the situation which produced the ruckus:

Gus Bell was on second and Wally Post on first. There was one out. Bob Borkowski struck out on a wild pitch that got away from catcher Del Crandall. Under the rules, Borkowski was out automatically with first and second occupied even though the catcher didn't get the ball.

But he and the other two runners set sail. Crandall threw to third after he retrieved the ball and third baseman Eddie Mathews whipped it toward first. The ball struck Borkowski in the back and Bell and Post scored.

Then came an 18 minute huddle of the umpires. They finally came up with the decision that Borkowski was out automatically, of course, and that Bell was out because Borkowski had interfered with the play by running to first when he was already out.

The Cincinnatians had a brilliant victory in the making until the eighth. Corky Valentine had yelded only one hit and was nursing a 1-0 margin until the Braves nicked him for five singles which produced three runs.

Cincinnati scored its only run in the fourth on a single by Roy McMillan, a couple of walks and Lloyd Merriman's sacrifice fly.

TWO MORE FOR CASEY — Casey Stengel, center, cheers as he waves his new contract which gives him two more years as manager of the New York Yankees. Stengel signed under a salary and bonus arrangement which can earn him $100,000 a year. Looking on happily is Dan Topping, co-owner of the Yankees.

15 Set To Go In Brown Jug

9th Annual Event Has $69,332 Purse

By FRITZ HOWELL

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—It looked like a wide-open scrap today as 15 of the nation's niftiest three-year-old pacers awaited the word in the $69,332.06 ninth annual Little Brown Jug.

It's the biggest pacing purse in history, as well as the largest ever offered for any harness feature on a half-mile track. And it's possible for all 15 nominees to get a cut of the big melon.

Under the new USTA setup for big fields, the owners decided to slice the entries into two divisions. Each will race two heats, with the first one due off about 1:45 p.m., (EST). The four heat winners will return for a winner-take-all dash for 20 per cent of the purse. Plans call for a 25-minute interval between heats.

The remainder, with 20 per cent going to each heat, will be split among the first five horses in each. With eight going in the top division, and seven in the lower, all have a chance to nudge among the first five in one of the two heats for each section.

Meadow Pace, Joe O'Brien's winter book favorite which has started only twice this year but won both heats in 1:59 4-5, just made it into the race. O'Brien dropped his $500 starting fee into the box just a minute before it closed yesterday.

Diamond Hall, coupled with Meadow Pace as the Camp Farms entry; Adios Harry, Queen's Adios, and Phantom Lady, the only filly in the race, are favored by the odds - fellows. Diamond Hall and Adios Harry are quoted at 2 to 1, Queen's Adios 5 to 2, and Meadow Pace and Phantom Lady 3 to 1.

The race figures to be the fastest of all Jugs, with Tar Heel's 1951 straight heat marks of 2.01 and 2.00 in jeopardy. Adios Harry, Diamond Hal, Excellent Chief, Jug Chief, Meadow Pace and Phantom Lady have crashed the two-minute mark this year, and Queen's Adios, Parker Byrd, Meadow Gold, Dale Frost and Cimarron's Forbes have done 2.01 or better.

Going in the first division are Ensign Lad, Jug Chief, Meadow Gold, Earl's Ensign, Cimarron's Forbes, Diamond Hal, Queen's Adios and Phantom Lady. In the second section are My Scotch Belle, Adios Harry, Excellent Chief, Meadow Pace, Highland Laird, Parker Byrd and Dale Frost.

The "Jug" winds up four days of racing at the little Delaware County Fair, in which $153,632.06 will be distributed in purses. The 15 Jug eligibles have paid $960 each, and are the survivors of some 700 nominees.

Series Fans May Compare Doby, Mays

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The almost certain capacity crowd which will pack New York's Polo Grounds next Wednesday for the first game of the World Series will be able to compare first hand two of baseball's premier center fielders — Willie Mays of the Giants and Cleveland's Larry Doby.

Both powerful batters, fleet of foot and with strong throwing arms, Mays and Doby are a cinch to finish up close in the Most Valuable Player awards voting, if not at the head of the class.

And valuable they were. Mays started and extended rallies, threatened Babe Ruth's all-time home-run standard for a time and often came up with a key defensive play. Doby, perhaps a mite steadier than Willie in the field, though less sensational, carried most of the Indians' load after Al Rosen's slugging tailed off because of a fractured finger.

Mays leads the National League with a .346 batting mark. His 41 homers and 110 runs batted in compare favorably with Doby's 32 circuit blows and 124 RBI's.

Overall, the Giants appear to have the outfield edge, if only for Don Mueller's superiority over Cleveland's right fielders, Dave Philley and Wally Westlake.

In left field, where Giant Manager Leo Durocher has yet to choose between Dusty Rhodes and Monte Irvin, there's no marked advantage either way over the Indians' Al Smith.

Mueller, with 203 hits — the most in the majors — and a third-place batting average of .338 is enjoying his best of seven big league seasons.

Philley, a switch-hitter, started the season slowly and is finishing at the same gait with a .224 mark. Westlake likely will take over right field against southpaw pitching.

Smith, one of the real surprises for the Indians, has produced 11 home runs, 49 runs batted in and a .278 batting average. Speedy and with a powerful, accurate throwing arm, he figures to play both against righthanders and lefties.

Whether Rhodes or Irvin gets the starting nod, the Giants will present a long ball threat in left field. Dusty, with a .344 average, has walloped 15 home runs and Irvin, although at .269, has 19.

Irvin's performance in the 1951 series, the last one in which the Giants appeared, may prompt Durocher to go along with him. Monte collected 11 hits in that six-game set for a sparkling .458 effort.

WEDNESDAY'S STARS

PITCHING — Karl Spooner, Brooklyn Dodgers, 23-year-old southpaw up from Fort Worth in the Texas League, set a record for a rookie pitcher making his first start in the major leagues by striking out 15 New York Giants for a 3-0 victory.

BATTING — Al Smith, Cleveland Indians, drove in two runs with a double and a triple as the American League champions won their 110th game of the season, 3-1, over the Chicago White Sox.

Lausche Denies Rhodes' Report

Auditor Asks Advice On 'Criminal Action'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor James A. Rhodes has asked Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill for advice on how to begin "any criminal or civil actions which may be called for" as a result of Rhodes' audit of the Ohio Turnpike Commission.

Rhodes, Republican candidate for governor, claimed yesterday in the report that commission Chairman James W. Shocknessy, a Columbus attorney, represents two insurance firms that wrote some 50 million dollars worth of insurance for turnpike contractors.

Both Shocknessy and Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche called the report a "character assasination". Shocknessy flatly denied he represents either of the two insurance companies, United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. of Baltimore Md., or the Standard Accident Insurance Co. of Detroit.

Rhodes' report, compiled under the direction of Donald Cook, a former G-man, said the Martindale-Hubbell Law Directory listed the firm of Shocknessy, Summers & Denton as counsel for both companies.

"An auditor worthy of the name would not have relied on secondary sources," Shocknessy said. He showed newsmen letters from both companies stating that neither he nor his associates represent them.

"The chairman of this commission does not represent any insurance or surety company that guarantees any bonds of performance by turnpike contractors," Shocknessy stated.

The report also cited what it termed "improper transactions of commission agents" in sales of land near the 241-mile Northern Ohio Turnpike; criticized the commision for not setting up an annual budget for construction and operational expenses, and noted that the commission pays the bills for Shocknessy's suite of rooms at the Columbus Athletic Club.

On the land transactions, Shocknessy said:

"We're going to write to everyone mentioned in the report to ask them to confirm or deny the statements."

Shocknessy and other commission members were appointed by Lausche, who seeks a fifth term this fall.

Shocknessy called the report "the big lie . . . of a public official, who devoid in integrity himself would deny integrit yto others."

Rhodes didn't comment immediately on Shocknessy's statements.

H-Bomb Effects Kill Japanese Fisherman

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—After announcing "definite progress" in negotiations last night, union and company officials today attacked one another over reported "back to work" movements at the Westinghouse Electric plant, idled eight days by a strike over seniority rights.

Carol O. Brown, representative of the Internatonal Union of Electrical Workers, CIO, charged Works Manager E. L. Smith with sending letters to the 2,000 employes in attempts to get them back on the job.

Brown claimed the "back to work" movement ha sfallen flat on its face. Company officials denied participating in any such campaign.

A letter sent by Smith to employes said in part:

"I have repeatedly said that the doors are open and your jobs and your pay are waiting. . . ."

The company mailed copies of that letter to news agencies last week.

Negotiations were resumed yesterday after company officials left the conference room Monday charging strike violence. Later, a peaceful picketing pact was signed.

The company offers occupational seniority, while the union says it wants a more expansive seniority program or a "modified occupational seniority" plan.

Recipe Is Winner Of $7,500

A good cook gets her reward! Mrs. Joseph E. Terrill of Burlingame, Kan. experimented and achieved what she thought was a perfect recipe for a sweet yeast bread. Judges of a recent 5th National Recipe and Baking Contest agreed, and awarded Mrs. Terrill the second prize of $7,500 for her recipe

We pressed our 15-year-old nephew into service when we tried Mrs. Terrill's Cinnamon Nu Crisps. After we had made the dough and cut it into one inch slices as directed, he had a lot of fun placing the slices on a sugared board and rolling them out thin. Naturally, when the Crisps came out of the oven, he was one of our best tasters. Older eaters voted these individual coffee cakes especially good for dunking!

This prize-winning recipe will not appear in any other newspaper or magazine column. So if you have a yen to try a recipe that's made culinary history, here's your chance-

Cinnamon Nut Crisps

1 cake compressed yeast or 1 package active dry yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
2 eggs (well beaten)
1 cup lukewarm cream
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ teasnpoons salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
4½ to 5 cups sifted flour
4 tablespoons butter (melted)
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¾ cup blanched almonds or other nuts (finely chopped)
1-3 cup raisins (chopped)
extra sugar

Soften yeast in water. Mix eggs, cream, 3 tablespoons sugar, salt, vanilla and the softened yeas. Gradually add flour, blending thoroughly after each addition to make a stiff dough. Knead on well-floured board for 2 to 3 minutes until smooth.

Place in greased bowl and cover tightly. Let rise in warm place (85 F. to 90 F.) until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours. Roll out to a 26 by 20 inch rectangle, about ¼-inch hick. Bush with 2 tablespoons of the melted butter. Mix Brown sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle half of mixture over dough

Fold long sides to center; press down firmly. Fold in half lengthwise, making 4 layers; press firmly to seal. Roll out again to a 26 by 12 inch rectangle. Brush with the remaining 2 tablespoons melted butter. Mix almonds, raisins, and remaining brown sugar and cinnamon mixture; sprinkle over dough

Roll as for jelly roll, starting with 26-inch edge. Cut into 1 inch slices. Dip one cut side of each slice in flour and place, floured side up, on board that has been sprinkled with extra sugar. Roll out to ½ inch thickness.

Place on well-greased baking sheets, sugared side up. Let rise in warm place 15 minutes. Bake in moderate (375 F.) oven until golden brown, 15 to 18 minutes. Makes about 2 dozen.

While first pans of rolls are baking, place extra rolls on waxed paper, sugared side up, to let rise. Transfer to baking sheet to bake. If necessary, rolls may rise longer than 15 minutes.

To make a special topping for a fruit salad, add a tablespoon or two of chopped nut meats — walnuts, pecans, or almonds— to a mayonnaise and whipped cream dressing.

Bake Crusty French Bread

It's nothing unusual to see a well-dressed business man walk along the streets of Paris carrying a long narrow loaf of bread, unwrapped, on his way home from his office. The French are big bread eaters and have wonderful varieties.

We stopped in several bakeries, lured by the fragrance of warm bread baking. The loaves come from the oven early in the morning, again just before noon and at five in the afternoon. The French want their bread really fresh for each meal.

This recipe for a long narrow crusty loaf comes from a small cafe on the Left Bank. The American home economists of the European Recipe Service in Paris, just started by Pillsbury Mills of Minneapolis, have adjusted it to American flour which has more gluten than French flour.

Crusty French Bread
(Makes 2 loaves))

Combine 1 tablespoon shortening, 1 tablespoon salt and 1 tablespoon sugar in large bowl. Add 1 cup boiling water. Add 1 cup cold water; cool to lukewarm.

Blend in 1 cake compressed yeast, crumbled (or 1 package active dry yeast dissolved as directed on package). Add gradually 5½ to 6 cups sifted enriched flour; mix until well blended.

Knead on lightly floured board for 5 minutes; place in greased bowl and cover. Let rise in warm place (85 to 90 degrees F.) until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours.

Shape into long oblong loaves; place on greased baking sheet. Let rise until light and doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Brush with slightly beaten egg white. With sharp knife lightly cut diagonally across top three times. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 30 minutes; reduce heat to 350 degrees F. and bake for 30 minutes.

If active dry yeast is used, the water used to dissolve dry yeast should be subtracted from water in recipe.

Genoise Makes Basic Dessert

The Ritz Hotel on the Place Vendome in Paris is the last word in luxury. There, Paul S. Gerot, president of a flour mill,, at Minneapolis, U.S.A, gave a dinner party to inaugurate his company's European Recipe Service.

It was a gala night with good will, superb food, the finest French wines and entertainment by colorful cancan dancers.

The dessert was Genoise Vendome. Genoise is the most famous basic cake in Europe and was reportedly brought to France by Catherine de Medici.

Genoise
(Makes two layers)

Beat 1 cup (about 5) eggs until light and fluffy. Gradually add 1 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until thick and lemon colored. Fold in 1¼ cups sifted enriched flour, 2 tablespoons at a time. Fold gently but thoroughly.

Pout into two 8-inch round layer pans, well - greased and lined with waxed paper on the bottoms. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Cool in pan. Split to form four layers. Spread cool creme au beurre between layers and on sides of cake.

Creme au Beurre

Combine ¾ cup sugar and 2 tablespoons cornstarch in saucepan. Mix well. Add 3 eggs (or 6 egg yolks). Beat until light and fluffy. Stir in 1½ cups milk; cook over medium heat until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cool. Blend in ½ cup creamed butter or margarine.

Chocolate Icing

Cream 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Blend in 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar. Add 1 small egg; beat well. Blend in 1 square (1 ounce) melted chocolate and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Beat until smooth.

READY FOR ANY ATTACK

A plant fire chief instructs a steel worker in use of a dry chemical fire extinguisher.

THESE TWO PHOTOS may not seem to have anything in common, but they are both tied to a comprehensive program for the protection of industrial plants against atom and hydrogen bombs. The steel industry has published a guide book on the basic organization and training required to defend industries against possible enemy air attack. Included in the manual are instructions on how to put out fires quickly as well as the fastest way to subdue agents bent on sabotage. Other subjects covered are the rescue of trapped workers and quick removal from bombed areas. If the time comes, industry will be ready.

A group of industrial auxiliary police learn the art of self-defense as part of program.

Refresh With Good Iced Tea

It's hard to get a good glass of iced tea — if you like real tea flavor and not just amber-colored water. Usually the brew is not strong enough and it is diluted with too much ice; or if the brew is strong enough, it is still over-diluted.

Here is our own favorite method of making iced tea. We like it because it is quick and gives uniform flavor.

We use three level teapoons of a fine grade of black tea and two cups of water for every two 16-ounce glass servings. Yes, we like a really tall drink! First we put the required amount of water on to boil; as soon as the water boils, we pour it over the tea leaves in a teapot and let it brew exactly five minutes by the clock.

Then we stir the tea leaves once and strain the tea into the glasses. If your glasses aren't heavy, put a teaspoon in the glass before you pour. Next we put ice cubes in each glass — leaving room for dilution — give the tea and ice a whirl with a long-handled spoon and serve at once.

If the tea stands a bit and clouds, add a tablespoon of boiling water for each serving and it will clear. But honestly, we think there is too much fuss about tea clouding — especially since we learned that fine teas are more likely to cloud than poorer grades!

Because the members of our family and many of our friends like their iced tea sweetened and flavored with lemon or lime, in summer we often make up a batch of lemon or lime tea syrup and keep it in the refrigerator. At serving time, we add syrup to taste to each glass of tea, or let people help themselves. You can make other flavors of tea syrup too — orange or mint, for instance.

Lemon or Lime Tea Syrup

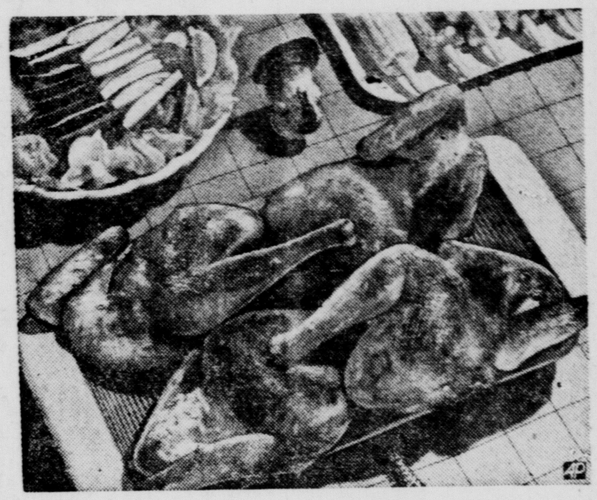

1 cup sugar
¾ cup water
lemon or lime rind
¼ cup lemon or lime juice

Put sugar and water in a small saucepan. Cut rind thinly away from one-half a lemon or lime so it is membrane-free; slice into very thin even strips Add rind to saucepan with lemon or lime juice Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Bring quickly to a boil; boil 5 minutes without stirring. Cool and refrigerate in tightly covered jar. Makes about 1¼ cups. In serving, garnish syrup with thin slice of lemon or lime.

Orange Syrup: Use 1 cup sugar, ½ cup water, thin strips of membrane - free orange rind from one-half of an orane, ½ cup orange juice. Skin off any bits of foam. Makes about 1¼ cups. In serving garnish syrup with mint sprig. orange.

Mint Syrup: Use 1 cup sugar, 1 cup water, and 3 tablespoons chopped fresh mint. Chill and strain. Makes about 1 cup. In serving, garnish syrup with mint spig.

Oven Baked Chicken Anita

This chicken was made to order: A friend wrote to say that she was particularly fond of a recipe of ours that called for baking chicken quarters over a simple herb-seasoned dry bread crumb stuffing. She had used the recipe a good deal and so she asked, "Do you have anything similar but flavored differently?"

The recipe below is our answer: chicken quarters layered over a dressing that this time is made with buttery tidbits of fresh bread and flavored piquantly with lemon juice, parsley and pimiento.

We like this dish for company because you can put it in the oven a half an hour or so before dinner is to be served and forget about it. When everyone is ready to sit down, out comes the chicken — tender as can be and a beautiful golden brown atop its good dressing.

So easy to serve, too, if you follow our directions for placing the chicken on aluminum foil. If you are having a party of eight, you will find this recipe is an easy one to double.

Since you will have your oven on for the chicken, you might as well bake potatoes at the same time to serve with it. But if the potatoes are large ones, put them in the oven a little ahead of the chicken to make sure they get done Corn on th cob and a salad of raw vegetables will round out the main course; dessert might be a fruit shortcake.

Or if you are in a take-it-easy mood, serve the chicken with just a hearty salad of lettuce, pineapple and berry-topped cottage cheese; for dessert have a coffee gelatin mold or a chocolate Bavarian cream so as not to repeat the fruit flavors of the salad.

You can make the coffee or chocolate desserts in the morning, or even the night before, and save yourself last-minute preparation.

Chicken Anita

1 quart tiny soft bread cubes (about 8 thin slices bread with crusts on)
¼ cup chopped canned drained pimiento
2 tabespoons minced parsley
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teasoon pepper
5 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons emon juice
2 to 2½ pounds (ready-to-cook weight) frying chicken (quartered)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ teaspoons butter (melted)

Mix bread cubes with pimiento, parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, butter and 3 tablespoons lemon juice. Line a shallow baking pan with aluminum foil.

Place 4 mounds of stuffing apart from each other on the foil, using about 1 cup in each mound. Clean chicken; pat dry.

Sprinkle inside of each piece of chicken lightly with salt; place one-quarter chicken over each mound of stuffing.

Mix 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1½ teaspoons melted butter; brush chicken with mixture. Bake (uncovered) in a hot (400 degrees' oven 30 to 40 minutes or until chicken is tender and goden-brown.

Cut foil into 4 pieces and serve chicken on foil, if desired. Or remove chicken and dressing from foil with large spatula. Makes 4 servings.

Try California Pear Salads

Here are three pear salad recipes we learned on our recent visit to California.

At a barbecue party, we were served a patio pear salad platter on which chilled halved Bartlett pears and small clusters of grapes were arranged, plus a glass bowl filled with a cream mayonnaise.

Patio Pear Salad
(Serves 8)

4 ripe Bartlett pears
2 lbs. red and green grapes mayonnaise
washed garden leaves

Wash, halve and core pears. Brush cut surfaces with fruit juice to prevent discoloration. Wash grapes and garden leaves. Arrange pears and grapes on large platter or chop plate. Garnish with garden leaves and serve with dish of mayonnaise.

Bartlett Pear and Orange Salad
(Makes 6 salads)

3 ripe Bartlett pears
3 large oranges
12 dates
12 walnut halves
lettuce
salad dressing

Wash Bartlett pears, halve and core. Peel oranges and slice crosswise into sixths. Pit dates and stuff with walnut halves. Arrange one pear half, cut side up, on each lettuce-lined salad plate.

Place three orange slices on one side and garnish with two walnut-stuffed dates. Fill cavity of ear with salad dressing.

Mariner's Pear Salad
(Serves 4)

3 ripe Bartlett pears
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 7½-ounce can crabmeat or other seafood
2-3 cup diced celery
¼ cup diced green pepper
¼ cup toasted almonds
1-3 cup mayonnaise
⅛ teaspoon salt

Wash Bartlett pears, then halve and core. Dice into mixing bowl and sprinkle with lemon juice. Flake crabmeat into bowl, then add diced celery, green peppers, almonds, and salt. Toss lightly. Add mayonnaise, mix until all ingredients are coated. Serve in lettuce cups.

A number of foods come packed in glass jars with wide mouths. Save the jars and use them as refrigerator dishes.

Girl Scouts Cook Outdoors

If you and your family have a yen to cook outdoors while you are vacationing, the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. will give you plenty of tips. They practice the whole year through. August 2, hundreds of Girl Scouts acquire even more know - how when at various points they enterd the Appalachian Trail —stretching from upper Pennsylvania through Virginia — for a three-day hike and cook out.

The scouts manual, "Cooking Outdoors" is full of handy hints. Along with over 50 pages of recices for one-pot meals, "stick" cooking and other kinds of outdoor dishes, the manual has directions for building fires, kinds of fuel to use, methods of food care and cook-our organization.

n addition to solid information, there are intriguing suggestions. This one, for instance, giving a substitute for soda in bread-making, makes any adventurous family want to hit the trail:

"Instead of soda, use an equal amount of the whte of wood ashes and mix it dry with flour. It makes the bread rise, the same as soda, and it isn't possible to tell the difference. The best ashes are those of the hickory, dogwood, sugar maple, and corncobs; but the ashes of beech, ash, buckeye, balsam poplar, and yellow poplar are also good."

Nothing daunts the camping scouts — whether they are braising ham in a beanhole, having a fish bake or an Imu. No utensils are needed for the Imu. According to the scouts, it's a mode of cooking that was used in ancient days by mediterranean countries:

Mesopotamia, Afghanistan, Siberia, and Japan. When they follow this early cooking technique, the scouts heat rocks in a pit in the ground, place food (wrapped in dampened grape, hickory, or other nut leaves) next to the hot rocks, and cover the pit with earth to seal in the heat.

No beater handy for those flapjacks? Don't give it a second thought. Cut a three-forked branch or twig from a tree and use it as a beater by twirling or rolling it in the flapjack batter betwen the palms of your hands.

Tin cans come in for a how-to-do treatment, too. In preparation for cook - outs, scouts at troop meetings learn to make ktttles, stoves, corn poppers, skillets toasers and broilers out of various sizes of tin cans. Tin shears and a sturdy scout knife help — skill and ingenuity do the rest.

Berry picking is half the fun of camping, and of course Girl Scouts sometimes put their berries in muffins. Because non-fat dry milk is easy to pack and carry, and stays fresh, the scouts include it in their pack and use it for drinking and cooking in reliquefied or powdered form.

Here is their blueberry muffin recipe, calling for powdered nonfat milk. If you want to bake these good muffins indoors as we did, halve the recipe and fill 12 muffin cups (abou 2¾ inches measured across the top or ½ cup size) about two-thirds full; bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven about 25 minutes.

And remember that the batter should be slightly lumpy, and not mixed until smooth or you will have peaks and tunnels. The nonfat dry milk gives the muffins delightful golden-brown crust.

GIRL SCOUT MUFFINS

½ cup shortening
2-3 cup sugar
2 eggs (well-beaten)
4 cups flour
¾ cup nonfat dry milk powder
3 tablespoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups water
2 cups fresh blueberries

Cream shortening and sugar; add well beaten eggs. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add them alternately with water to creamed mixture. Add berries, slightly floured. Bake 20 to 25 minutes.

Questions, Answers

Q — Is a naturalized citizen subject to deportation?

A — They may have their citizenship revoked on conviction of certain crimes, and are then subject to deportation to the land of their origin.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

LOS ANGELES

President Eisenhower never spent more time figuring out an approach on the golf course than he has on his approach to the 700 influential AFL national chiefs gathered for their annual convention at the Hotel Ambassador here.

Victor Riesel

No matter which way he swings, the President must land in the rough. He knows that if he comes here and makes concessions to the leaders of over 10 million workers —who, with their families, make up scores of millions of votes in this critical election season—America's businessmen will be angered.

Mr. Eisenhower knows this from his Labor Secretary Jim Mitchell. During the past weeks Mitchell has had a series of confidential talks in Washington with spokesmen for some of the most powerful business groups in the land. Mitchell was direct. He asked them not to oppose President Eisenhower's making concessions to labor during his talk here.

MITCHELL ALSO SAID there was a lot more friendship towards the GOP in top labor circles than is realized. He said that concessions would pay off in votes. Most of the businessmen rebuffed him. They said labor would throw its money and manpower mostly behind the Democratic candidate—with a few exceptions — regardless of what Ike said. The industrialists added that they believe that Congress would not pass any law which would deliver the concessions and this would embarrass the President.

So, unless there's a last second switch, Ike will merely say "hello" to the all-powerful convention of the world's greatest labor federation. He knows this will not sit well with the labor people. And he knows they will utilize a decision not to woo labor as political ammunition against the Republican party this fall.

That's what's making this approach so difficult.

In the early hours of the gathering here, word was passed among AFL national leaders that Dave McDonald might actually pull his 1,250,000 - member Steel Workers Union out of the CIO in the next 10 days. A little legwork revealed that this report was based on a very sarcastic reference by McDonald to CIO chief Walter Reuther last Wednesday at the Steelworkers Executive Committee session in Atlantic City.

Referring to the CIO, President McDonald said:

"Dilettantes mince where giants once trod."

The dictionary defines "mince" as "to walk or move with short daity steps." We'll see.

WORD HERE IS that unemployment will stay between 3,5 to 4 million until mid-1955. Those who keep their eyes on government orders hear that the Defense Department will soon double the orders it placed in 1954. But that means that not until mid-1955 will the factories roll on these purchases. So new jobs in defense plants won't open for some six months yet. But then they're expected to absorb over a million jobless.

Construction union men report that there is nothing to the Communist - inspired rumor that the govtrnment is planning heavy prison building expenditure because of the new law banning the Communist party and depriving Communist unions of legal rights. There is some penitentiary construction planned, but that would take place even if there were no Communist party. Federal prisons now house more than 20,000 prisoners — a all-time high. And each jail is overcrowded.

The country is seething with flying teams of FB and Treasury Department agents and special congressional and state sleuths investigating union welfare and pension fund handling. These funds pour into special treasuries at the rate of 3 billion dollars a year. The government wants to be certain they are not being mishandled —and that those who do cut in are paying their income taxes.

GVE CREDIT to AFL president George Meany. Under his guidance here, the AFL will take the unprecedented step of amending its constitution so that the welfare funds of 800 unions chartered directly by the AFL's national headquarters in Washington are controlled by that headquarters.

Mr. Meany and some of his colleagues in the AFL high command hope that this will set the precedent for the 111 international AFL unions, which charter their own locals. Meany wants each of the big national unions to police their locals so that there'll be no scandals.

At this moment there are two congressional probes, one by Rep. Sam McConnell, here in Los Angeles, under the counselship of Ed McCabe, and another by Sen. Irving Ives in the East. New York, California, Minnesota and Wisconsin are investigating these funds within their own borders.

Rogers

Those who attended the rededication of the Elkton Methodist Church from here were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene G. Hedinger, Mrs. Mary Shively, Mrs. Lou Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Wonsetler and Rev. Robert I. Harmon.

The WC.T.U County Convention will be held in the Rogers Methodist Church Sept 25 with forenoon and afternoon sessions. O. A. Tarr will be guest speaker He is a member of the Northeast Ohio Temperance Committee

Mrs. Bessie Kendall returned home from visiting her sister in Alliance.

Tuesday was apple butter making day at the Methodist Church.

Thursday evening, Sept. 23, the Brooks Circle will meet in the church at 8 p.m. Members are requested to bring a sack lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tullis entertained at a dinner at home Friday evening for the pleasure of their son, Richard, and his bride, the former Carol Lee Carlisle.

A white cake decorated with wedding bells and the names, Richard and Carol centered the table. Guests were the bride's parents, and brother, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Carlisle and Richard, and the groom's grandparents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tullis and Marilyn.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met in the home of Mrs. Leland Raley Wednesday. The business accumulated during the summer recess was disposed of by president Mrs. L. T. Lyder. Lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Raley
